CITING WITHIN YOUR PAPER (Parenthetical citations)

According to an article by James Gleick science is a subject that "scares most students" (135).

According to an article, science is a subject that "scares most students" (Gleick 135).

Vegetarian chili is best made with fresh vegetables and cooked in a crockpot. ("How to Make Vegetarian Chili").

NOTE – you may shorten your title but make sure it starts with the same letter in the alphabet to allow people to find the full entry in your citation list.

WHEN TO CITE??? If your information is original to your source.

If you read three articles and you find info common information in all three just list the three sources in the citation list and you don't need to list anything in the parenthetical citations. If you find information in one source that is not in the other two, then you need a parenthetical citation.

YOU SHOULD ALWAYS HAVE AT LEAST 3 SOURCES! 5-7 is much better though!!

Next Step: Create a LIST, MLA format!!

Use the cards located in the library to help you cite. The cards include the correct punctuation and format. We also have access to a NoodleTools school account that you can use to cite your sources. ALWAYS USE MLA 7 FORMAT.

THE RULES:

- Begin your Works Cited page on a separate page at the end of your research paper. It should have the same one-inch margins and last name, page number header as the rest of your paper.
- Label the page Works Cited (do not italicize the words Works Cited or put them in quotation marks) and center the words Works Cited at the top of the page.
- Double space all citations, but do not skip spaces between entries.
- Indent the second and subsequent lines of citations five spaces create a hanging indent.
- Capitalize each word in the titles of articles, books, etc, but do not capitalize articles, short prepositions, or conjunctions unless one is the first word of the title or subtitle: Gone with the Wind, The Art of War, There Is Nothing Left to Lose.
- Watch your punctuation! Use the cards to help you.
- Your list should be alphabetized. Use the first thing that appears on the citation to alphabetize, not the URL.
- URL (web address) You do NOT need a URL for a database source. That means if you found your source on one of the library databases like World Book or Opposing Viewpoints not don't need to include the web address. You DO need a URL if you find your source on Google or on the web. Your web address has to include http://
- Medium of Publication means what type of format the information was in. Anything in print is called PRINT. Anything on the web is called WEB. Easy right?!?
- Make it easy for yourself many of the library databases especially the encyclopedias include a citation. You just have to copy and paste it into your Works Cited page. Always pick MLA format!!

CITING & EXAMPLES:

An author's name always appears in last name, first name format for any type of citation.
